Tibetan Buddhist Mantra Hand Cut Stone Frame

www.gratefy.com

Om Mani Padme Hum is one of the most powerful chant in Buddhism.

Om = The vibration or sound of the universe; represents divine energy and generosity and purifies the ego

Mani = Meaning jewel, just as a jewel is capable of removing poverty, similarly the enlightened mind is capable of removing the poverty, or difficulties, of cyclic existence and of solitary peace.

Padma = The two syllables, padme, meaning lotus, symbolize wisdom, just as a lotus grows from mud but remains not effected by the faults of mud.

Hum = The unity of all; represents wisdom and purifies hatred

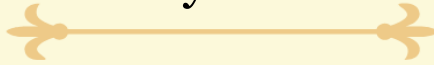

Revered globally ,each syllable of this chant represents one of the six goals of Buddhist existence and helps heal or purify and bring forth the positive qualities associated with that goal.

Prayer Wheel, also called Mani wheels

A prayer wheel is an inseparable part of the Tibetan and Buddhist tradition. They are an aid to meditation and are a means of accumulating wisdom, good karma, and a means of putting bad karmas and negative energy aside. The inner portion of the hollow cylinder contains a tightly scrolled paper with handwritten mantra.

The prayer inside : OM MANI PADME HUM. In simple English translation it means “Praise to the Jewel in the Lotus” but each word has great teaching.

Om = The vibration or sound of the universe; represents divine energy and generosity and purifies the ego

Mani = Meaning jewel, just as a jewel is capable of removing poverty, similarly the enlightened mind is capable of removing the poverty, or difficulties, of cyclic existence and of solitary peace.

Padma = The two syllables, padme, meaning lotus, symbolize wisdom, just as a lotus grows from mud but remains not effected by the faults of mud.

Hum = The unity of all; represents wisdom and purifies hatred.

Where to place it? Prayer wheels are placed in the entryway to homes, so people can turn them as they come and go.

Tibetan Singing Bowls

The singing bowl has a history that dates back thousands of years. It is a type of bell that vibrates and produces a rich, deep tone when played. They are said to ensure relaxation and offer powerful healing properties. Singing bowl benefits include:

- Promote relaxation
- Improving sleep
- Lowering blood pressure
- Stimulating the immune system
- Pain relief
- Balancing and harmonizing the body
- Enhancing meditation and deep breathing.

How to use: To create sound with a singing bowl, firmly press the accompanying mallet in a circular motion against the bowl's outside edge or rim. When you hear a bright, clear tone, you can slow down the motion. Use your full arm to make the motion, rather than just rotating your wrist.

You can also make the same circular motion against the outside belly of the bowl. Additionally, you can gently strike the bowl before beginning the circular motion.
